It is a bridge/tunnel combination with an overall length of 14 km, which includes a 4.4 km bridge and a 9.6 km tunnel. It is the fourth longest underwater tunnel in the world. Mt Nokogiri and its mountain range is shaped like the teeth of a saw. A Buddhist temple, Nihon-ji, is located near the summit and it dates back to 725. The highlight of Mount Nokogiri is the Jigoku Nozoki, or "peak in hell", is a thrilling view point located at the mountain top. There are 400+ steps to get to the top, so it's not a walk in the park. On this mountain, there are over 2,600 steps altogether. After "peaking in hell" let's take a look at the Buddha statue carved out of stone located midway on the mountain. At 102 ft (31 m) it is as tall as a ten-story building. On our way back, we will take the 40-minute ferryboat across Tokyo Bay.

**Since the monkeys are wild, they may not always be in the park.*

The summer scene at the Nagano Jigokudani monkey park is quite different than that of the winter months. The trees are full of green leaves, which shade the hot sun, and vegetation is covering most of the ground. This ideal situation brings the monkeys closer to the park and gives them places to hide and rest. There are also wild berries, flowers and insects for them to eat. It's also an important time for most of the babies that were born in the early spring to make their appearance to the other monkeys and to us visitors. During this time, you will be able to see mothers with their babies, who are clenched tight to their mother's bodies, sunbathing, eating grass and grains out in the open. It's also interesting to see how the mother watches over their baby when it wanders off of their bodies. After the monkey park, we will stop by Shinshu Fruits Land for some cherry picking with all-you-can-eat cherries for 30 minutes.
